learning architect

With over 20 years of training delivery experience, I'm an expert in adult learning models, content design and facilitation.

After gaining experiences with local training and consulting companies, I brought Peter Drucker's "Management Path" program to Turkey, later on I joined FranklinCovey and served as a practice area leader and partner in Turkey and Azerbaijan.

I'm one of the few members of IAF (International Association of Facilitators) and ATD (Association of Talent Development) in Turkey

I have been selected as a keynote speaker for ATD World Conference twice with the titles of "MacGyver Challenge" and "Canvas Design for Facilitators".

In addition to my passionate work on the development of internal trainers, I focus on the digital transformation of corporate academies in recent years and support training departments and internal trainers to create their own content with online interactive training solutions and workshops.
